APPROVED PROVIDER LIST FOR THE PROVISION OF EMERGENCY HORMONAL CONTRACEPTION

1. Population Needs

1.1 National/local context and evidence base

Sexual health is an important area of public health. Most of the adult population of England are sexually active and access to quality sexual health services improves the health and wellbeing of both individuals and population. The Government has set out its ambitions for improving sexual health in its publication, A Framework for Sexual Health Improvement in England.

Emergency Hormonal Contraception (EHC)

Emergency contraception aims to prevent pregnancy after unprotected sex or if a contraceptive method has failed. There are two methods of emergency contraception: the emergency hormonal contraceptive (EHC) pill (‘the morning after pill’) and the copper intra-uterine device (IUD or ‘coil’).

This specification is for the provision of EHC using oral hormonal emergency contraception within a community pharmacy setting only.

There are currently two types of oral hormonal emergency contraception:

- Levonorgestrel
- Ulipristal acetate

2. Aims and Objectives

2.1 General Overview

This specification sets out a model for providing Emergency Oral Hormonal Contraception (EHC) that includes the supply of either levonorgestrel or ulipristal acetate, as appropriate, by a suitably qualified community pharmacist, free of charge to the service user, according to the approved Patient Group Directions (PGD) for the supply/administration of EHC by a community pharmacist from a community pharmacy.

2.2 Aims and Objectives

To increase the knowledge, especially among young people, of the availability of emergency contraception and contraception from pharmacies.

To improve access to emergency contraception and sexual health advice.

To increase the use of EHC by women who have had unprotected sex and help contribute to a reduction in the number of unplanned pregnancies.

To refer clients, especially those from hard to reach groups, into mainstream contraceptive services.

To increase the knowledge of risks associated with STIs.

To refer clients who may have been at risk of STIs to an appropriate service.

To strengthen the local network of contraceptive and sexual health services to help ensure easy and swift access to advice.

To reduce the personal health and public health risk of infection by Chlamydia Trachomatis.

Increase access to all methods of contraception, including long-acting reversible contraception (LARC) methods and emergency hormonal contraception for women of all ages and their partners.
